There will be no makeup exams. If you miss a midterm the percentage of your final grade that the missed exam represents will be added to the final exam. For example if you miss the first midterm the final will count as 45% of your grade rather than 25%. There is no make up policy for the final. If you miss the final you get a zero, no exceptions. However if you have three or more final exams scheduled on the same day, you are entitled to arrange an alternate exam time for the last exam or exams scheduled on that day. To qualify for rescheduling, you must provide proof that you have three or more exams on that day. Arrangements must be made with me no later than the end of the 6th week of the semester.

Although I may be using technology to present the class to you, the best way to take notes in math class is good old paper and pencil. In accordance with this

. It is my experience that the temptations of the Internet are too great for the average student to resist and such activities are highly distracting to other students around you. I will enforce this strictly.

If you qualify for accommodations because of a disability, please submit to me a letter from disability services in a timely manner so that your needs can be addressed. Disability services determine accommodations based on documented disabilities.

Campus policy regarding religious observances requires that faculty make every effort to reasonably and fairly deal with all students who, because of religious obligations, have conflicts with scheduled exams, assignments, or required attendance. If you have a conflict, please contact me at the beginning of the term so we can make proper arrangements.

Students and faculty each have responsibility for maintaining an appropriate learning environment. Students who fail to adhere to such behavioral standards may be subject to discipline. Faculty has the professional responsibility to treat all students with understanding, dignity and respect, to guide classroom discussion and to set reasonable limits on the manner in which they and their students express opinions.
