Course Description:

The goal of this course is to study and understand the core issues in international finance (otherwise known as open-economy macroeconomics or international macroeconomics). The primary issues include the determination of exchange rates, factors that drive the balance of payments, and how shocks to the international economic system affect conditions in the domestic institutions such as the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund.

We are living through an exceptional period in the history of world economics, making it an exciting time to study international finance. Most of the world is becoming increasingly globalized, despite the pushback from the current US administration, with the result that events in one region directly affect those in another. How, for example, does an internal crisis within the Euro zone affect economic growth prospects in the United States, and why? What are the limitations of monetary policy in one country when capital can flow freely across borders in be countercyclical? We will examine these issues, and many more, in this class.

Evaluation methods

There will be 3 assigned problem sets, each worth 5% of your grade, 2 midterm exams, each worth 22%, and 1 final examination, worth 31%. Problem sets turned in within 24 hours of the due date will be marked down 20%. No assignments turned in after that time will be accepted. The assignments will essentially be problems for you to work out in order to improve your understanding of the material. The midterm exams and final exam will be a mixture of problems and essay questions and will be closed notes and closed books, with no makeup exams given.

I will make use of CU-remote, please get one from the CU bookstore immediately and register it. The URL to register one is <https://oit.colorado.edu/tutorial/cuclickers-iclicker-remote-registration> The Clicker code for Econ 117 is BA.

Please note that I have a policy to enforce attendance, which will be managed by your answering questions on the Clickers system in class. You may miss up to 3 classes in the term without informing me. Additional missed class time will require a medical certification or other valid

University Policies

You should familiarize yourself with the following University of Colorado policies:

1. If you qualify for accommodations because of a disability, please submit to your professor a letter from Disability Services in a timely manner (for exam accommodations provide your letter at least one week prior to the exam) so that your needs can be addressed. Disability Services determines accommodations based on documented disabilities. Contact Disability Services at 303-492-8671 or by e-mail at dsinfo@colorado.edu. If you have a temporary medical condition or injury, see Temporary Medical Conditions: Injuries, Surgeries, and Illnesses guidelines under Quick Links at Disability Services website and discuss your needs with your professor.
2. Campus policy regarding religious observances requires that faculty make every effort to deal reasonably and fairly with all students who, because of religious obligations, have conflicts with scheduled exams, assignments or required attendance. See full details at http://www.colorado.edu/policies/fac_relig.html

3. Students and faculty have responsibility for maintaining an appropriate learning environment. Those who fail to adhere to such behavioral standards may be subject to discipline. Professional courtesy and sensitivity are especially important with respect to individuals and topics dealing with differences of race, color, culture, religion, creed, politics, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender, gender identity and gender expression, age, disability, and nationalities.
