Course Description

All economies are made up of individual decision makers: consumers, firms and regulators whose choices interact to determine all aspects of the societies in which we live. This course introduces a theoretical framework that allows us to model the behavior of individual decision makers. A solid understanding of microeconomics is essential for anyone intending to pursue further studies in economics as many fields including industrial organization, trade, labor and environmental economics are built on microeconomics:

Prescribed Text

The prescribed textbook is Microeconomics, 2nd edition by David Besanko and Ronald Braeutigam. The course will follow the prescribed text closely. Students may also be interested in purchasing the companion study guide; although this is not required.

Additional reading may be assigned during the semester. Any additional reading will be listed on the course website.

There is no mark for attendance, however class participation will be noted. All material that is covered, either in class or in the readings, is examinable.

Procedures

1. If you qualify for accommodations because of a disability, please submit to me a letter from Disability Services in a timely manner so that your needs may be addressed. Disability Services determines accommodations based on documented disabilities. Contact: 303-492-8671, Willard 322, and,

<http://www.colorado.edu/disabilityservices>

<http://www.colorado.edu/disabilityservices>

2. Campus policy regarding religious observances requires that faculty make every effort to reasonably and fairly deal with all students who, because of religious obligations, have conflicts with scheduled exams, assignments or required attendance. You must inform me at least seven days in advance of any conflict due to a religious observance in order for alternative arrangements to be made. See full details at,

http://www.colorado.edu/policies/fac\_relig.html

3. Students and faculty each have responsibility for maintaining an appropriate learning environment. Students who fail to adhere to such behavioral standards may be subject to discipline. Faculty has the professional responsibility to treat all students with understanding, dignity and respect, to guide classroom discussion and to set reasonable limits on the manner in which they and their students express opinions. Professional courtesy and sensitivity are especially important with respect to individuals and topics dealing with differences of race, culture, religion, politics, sexual orientation, gender variance, and nationalities. See policies at:

4. All students of the University of Colorado at Boulder are responsible for knowing and adhering to the academic integrity policy of this institution. Violations of this policy may include: cheating, plagiarism, aid of academic dishonesty, fabrication, lying, bribery, and threatening behavior. All incidents of academic misconduct shall be reported to the Honor Code Council (honor@colorado.edu; 303-725-2273). Students who are found to be in violation of the academic integrity policy will be subject to both academic sanctions from the faculty member and non-academic sanctions (including but not limited to university probation, suspension, or expulsion). Other information on the Honor Code can be found at:

<http://www.colorado.edu/policies/honor.html>
